VOLUME CVI.--NO. 291. ALEXANDRIA, VA., FRIDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 8, 1905. PRICE 2 CENTS.

"Shut your eyes, open your mouth and see what luck will bring you."

Many a woman is weak and sick, nervous and discouraged. She suffers from headache, backache and other ills. She wants to be well, but all she does is to shut her eyes and open her mouth for medicine and trust to luck for results. She "doctors" month after month, often year after year, in this same blind, hap-hazard fashion, and receives no permanent benefit.

Women take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription with their eyes open to the fact that it cures womanly ills. It cures irregularity. It dries debilitating drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. There is no trusting to luck by those who use "Favorite Prescription."

"In the year 1903 my health was poor," writes Mrs. J. Hack, of 242 Broadway, Buffalo, N. Y. "I suffered from falling of womb, a disagreeable discharge, painful monthly periods, headache, backache and pains in the limbs. Every month was confined to bed for two or three days. Was weak, nervous and hysterical; life was a burden to myself and I made every one in the family unhappy because I was so irritable. My husband got me four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and before I had taken the first bottle I was feeling some relief. The medicine made me well and strong, free from nervousness, aches and pain, and I felt like a new woman. Before I used the 'Favorite Prescription' I had been taking another physician's medicine for nearly three months, but had received no benefit. Your medicine is certainly the best in the world."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Don't let a selfish seller over-persuade you to accept a substitute for these Original Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. R. V. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much [illegible] equaled.

UNHAPPINESS DISPELLED.

Men and Women Unanimous About It.

Many women weep and wail and refuse to be comforted because their once magnificent tresses have become thin and faded. Many men incline to profanity because the flies bite through the thin thatch on their craniums. It will be good news to the miserable of both sexes, to learn that Newbro's Herpicide has been placed upon the market. This is the new scalp germicide and antiseptic that acts by destroying the germ or microbe that is the underlying cause of all hair destruction. Herpicide is a new preparation, made after a new formula on an entirely new principle. Anyone who has tried it will testify as to its worth. Try it yourself and be convinced. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

FRIDAY EVENING, DEC. 8, 1905.

Socialism in Reichstag.

In the German Reichstag yesterday Admiral von Tirpitz, secretary of the admiralty, in introducing the naval bill said that the six large cruisers asked for were primarily for foreign service, the intention being when enough ships had been built to place four large cruisers on the foreign station and relieve them with four others from home. It was not necessary now to designate the stations, as it would depend on circumstances.

Germany's sea trade was growing remarkably. To arrange for the protection of that trade and to give a feeling of security to Germans abroad more ships were essential. Small cruisers would not fulfill the purpose. Great Britain, the United States, France and Japan endeavored to have one large cruiser to each battleship. Germany would not attempt that proportion, but she ought to have one large cruiser to two battleships; that is, when the programme calling for thirty-eight battleships is carried out. Germany ought also to have twenty armored cruisers.

Touching on the appropriation for submarine boat experiments, the admiralty secretary said he was not enthusiastic over submarine boats, but he was convinced that they would be of use within certain narrow limits.

Herr Bebel, the socialist leader, attacked the government's foreign policy. He said the Emperor, after the unveiling of the Moltke monument, had delivered a speech indicating the seriousnes of the situation, and the imperial chancellor had spoke of then deep-seated hostility of the British toward the Germans. This Herr Bebel believed would be contradicted across the Channel. Here there was no hostility against Great Britain.

The imperial chancellor had said in April that there was no sign that any power was going to infringe on German interests, but when the Emperor landed in Morocco all this was changed at one stroke. The Emperor's visit was a provocation calculated in excite the greatest distrust on the part of other nations.

Continuing, Herr Bebel said: "I refuse to be put off with the dictum that such things must not be discussed in the Reichstag because they concern the welfare of all the German people and because it might mean war."

The last remark of the socialist leader was greeted with scoruful laughter from the members of the Right party.

Herr Bebel sharpley attacked Prince von Buelow, the imperial chancellor, for preventing M. Jaures, the French socialist leader, speaking in Berlin, July 9, saying that by this action he had made Germany ridiculous to the world.

"Now that Russian absolutism is approaching its end," he continued, "Germany enjoys the reputation of being the most reactionary state of the world. Since the peace of Portsmouth Germany's position in the far East is precarious, because Germany, through her interference with the peace of Shimonoseki, is especially hated in Japan. Nemesis has prevailed.

"Germany should recognize the logical results of the situation, and withdraw entirely from Kiaochau. The dream of making a German Port Arthur out of Kiaochau is dispelled. The entire colonial policy of the government is pure illusion. It is high time for the Reichstag to grow sober. (Great laughter.) Bismarck was quite right when, at the time he heard of the acquisition of Kiaochau, he exclaimed: 'It is just big enough to cause many stupidities.' We have spent there altogether a hundred millions, and our trade is zero."

Herr Bebel created much merriment by referring to Emperor William's telegram to Emperor Nicholas, "the admiral of the Atlantic greets the admiral of the Pacific," adding that the "admiral of the Pacific" meanwhile had grown very pacific. He also mentioned the cartoon published in a comic paper representing the "admiral of the Pacific" in a washtub swimming desperately for the shore, with remnants of his wardrobe, and added: "I hope the admiral of the Atlantic will never have the same experience."

Herr Bebel created indignant protests from the government benches by referring to the situation in Russia as proof that the time was coming when the proletariat and not the cabinets would decide the question of war or peace.

"What the Russian people are now showing their ruler can be done," shouted the socialist leader, "also can be done by other European peoples. We are of the opinion that the people will never allow themselves to be again driven into war. Today war can only be made with the support of the entire people."

Continuing, Herr Bebel said: "The present time is a serious one. Do you believe that what is going on in the east is not exciting the German laboring population most profoundly? If you do not take care to make the tatherland what it should be, so that the workingmen will gladly defend it, they will raise the question whether they shall defend it at all." The socialist deputies shouted their assent to this remark, which caused great commotion on the government benches. The commotion waxed when Herr Bebel added: "If the German laboring classes fail you, you are lost, and I tell you that day will come. You have no conception of the embitterment of the hearts of the German workmen today."

Baron von Rheinbaben, Prussian minister of finance, followed, but paid slight attention to Herr Bebel's speech. He launched into a lengthy statistical statement, showing Germany's growth in wealth and prosperity, his conclusion being that the country was amply able to bear new burdens of taxation.

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER.

Alexandria Gazette — SIC SEMPER TYRANNIS — AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER

It is evident that President Roosevelt so far as in his power lies is determined to break up what is called the smoke nuisance in Washington and incidentally to drive manufactories from within the city limits proper of the capital. In his message sent to Congress on Tuesday, he says:

The law forbidding the emission of dense black or gray smoke in the city of Washington has been sustained by the courts. Something has been accomplished under it, but much remains to be done if we would preserve the Capital City from defacement by the smoke nuisance. Repeated prosecutions under the law have not had the desired effect. I recommend that it be made more stringent by increasing both the minimum and maximum fine; by providing for imprisonment in cases of repeated violation, and by affording the remedy of injunction against the continuation of the operation of plants which are persistent offenders. I recommend, also, an increase in the number of inspectors, whose duty it shall be to detect violations of the act.

Manufacturers who may be forced out of Washington need not move out of sight of the capital. There are many eligibles sites for their plants bordering on Alexandria which can be obtained on the most favorable terms.

With trickery the oleo trust is again seeking the repeal of the law placing a tax of 10 cents a pound on oleomargarine colored in imitation of butter. Mr. Grosvenor, one of the republican leaders in the House, introduced a bill in the House on Wednesday to reduce the tax to 2 cents a pound. The measure contains 4000 words, not one of which changes the present law, except in the amount of tax. Only careful examination of the bill would reveal the significant alteration. General Grosvenor says he introduced it "by request"—whose, he would not say. It is evident that the trust is just as active as ever. The same scheme had progressed so far in the last Congress as to make its framers confident of success, when it was exposed. Immediately all effort to obtain action by the House was abandoned. The trust has now adopted a new plan, but again it depends for success upon the acquiescance of the ways and means committee. It may be that direct efforts by representatives of the dairy interests will be necessary to prevent action upon the bill, and if this is true the action can not be taken a moment too soon.

The broad assertion that only care on the part of officials within a bank can prevent fraud and subsequent failure is made in the annual report of Comptroller of the Treasury Ridgely just issued. Mr. Ridgely says:

After a careful study of the cases which have come under my observation during the past four years, I am firmly convinced that no system of bank examination or supervision from the outside of the bank can absolutely prevent fraudulent bank failures. The more thorough and efficient the supervision the more surely and quickly frauds will be discovered, and the mere fear of detection will tend to prevent them, but they cannot be surely and in every case prevented by any practical means outside of the bank.

Mr. Ridgely adds that honest bank directors and examiners can prevent failures of financial institutions, and that reputations for honesty and a keen mind are necessary to bank wreckers. All sensible men will agree with Mr. Ridgely in his conclusions but the conundrum now is to find out who are honest and how to keep them so.

The Geological Survey puts the production of gold in this country during 1904 as 3,910,729 ounces, valued at $80,865,648, or an increase of $7,248,948 over 1903. Production of silver last year amounted to 55,999,864 ounces, valued at $32,035,078, or an increase of $1,699,864. This is a large sum of money but it is not a marker to what will be required annually for a long series of years to build the Panama canal.

Mr. Maynard, of the Norfolk district, says he will in all probability introduce his bill to increase the salary of the President of the United States at an early date. This bill will call for a salary of $75,000 annually, and also for an annual pension of $25,000 a year for all living presidents. Mr. Maynard is out for a big congressional appropriation for the Jamestown exposition.

From Washington.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.

When Edward C. Ryan, chosen by some of the American residents of the Isle of Pines as a Territorial Delegate to Congress, presents himself and his credentials at the Capitol, he will become aware of the fact that the House leaders have prepared anything but a cordial reception for him. He'll find pretty rough sledding along his political path. Speaker Cannon is among those who oppose his recognition. It is argued that Congress has no right to consider the Isle of Pines American territory, as long as its status has not been determined by the disposal of the treaty now pending before the Senate. "From what authorized source," said Speaker Cannon, "could Mr. Ryan have obtained his credentials? As well might some one from the island of Borneo approach the American Congress on a similar mission. Of course, some one can drop a resolution into the basket providing for the recognition of this delegate. But some can just as readily drop a resolution in the basket providing for the resurrection of St. Paul. There is no limit to the possibilities as far as the introduction of bills and resolutions is concerned."

Min Yueng Tohan, of Korea, former minister of that country to France, and brother of Min Yen Whan, a member of the Korean cabinet who committed suicide as a protest against the Japanese protectorate, will be received by Secretary Root Monday. The Korean visitor will, it is believed, present an urgent request for the interference of this country to prevent the loss of sovereignty by Korea. He will probably see President Roosevelt as well as Mr. Root. There seems little likelihood of Mr. Min's mission here having tangible result. This country has agreed to Japan's program in Korea from its inception at the time when the result of the Japanese war was beginning to be discounted. Edwin V. Morgan, the American minister to Seoul, has just left that capital being the first of the foreign representatives to abandon the post. Any interference in Korea would be hardly consistent with American policy of the past year in that part of the world.

An explosion in the engine and scrub room of the Washington Gas Light Company, early this morning, completely wrecked the building, causing a loss of about $40,000, and serious injured Engineer H. C. Grady, and his helper, Robert Dugan. At the time of the explosion there were three men in the building, Thomas Woods, and the two others named. Woods was blown from the building, and landed out in N st. He immediately returned to rescue his fellow workmen.

Emily N. Dempsey filed suit for divorce this morning against Patrick A. Dempsey, head coach of the Georgetown University Boat crew, alleging infidelity. Dempsey formerly lived in Philadelphia.

Mr. S. W. Woodward, of Woodward & Lothrop, is to make a special statement for the Committee on the Improvement of Housing Conditions at the annual meeting of the Associated Charities on Tuesday evening, December 12th, in the Church of the Covenant. Mr. Woodward will have something special to say concerning the summer study of local housing conditions which have recently been completed in Washington under the direction of his committee. It is said that about 300 dwellings were carefully studied by a special investigator and that the results have been embodied in a report entitled "Neglected Neighbors in the Alleys, Shacks and Tenements of the National Capital." It is expected that this report will be printed in book form as a means of arousing an enlightened public opinion to assist the committee in securing the condemnation of insanitary dwellings and the opening up of hidden alleys into minor streets. Mr. Woodward will briefly review the past year's work of the housing committee and explain in what way all persons interested may cooperate with the committee in the active campaign which they are waging this year. It is said that all persons interested are invited to attend the meeting, admission free.

Senator Martin says he wishes it understood that he is unequivocally an advocate of rate legislation. He not only advocates giving to the Interstate Commerce Commission the rate-making power, but also the power to see that a fair and reasonable railroad service is given the people.

The clerks of the appropriation committees of the House and Senate have gone over the estimates of appropriations required for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1907, recently submitted by Secretary of State Shaw, and have put them in shape for the consideration of the committees. They have increased the estimates from $622,723,151 to $804,296,415. The increase is principally due to the fact that the Secretary of the Treasury's estimates provide only for the estimated deficit in the Postoffice Department, viz: $13,960,506, without taking into consideration the total that will have to be appropriated without any consideration of the revenues of the department. All the department estimates, with the exception of army and fortifications, are in excess of those of last year. The net increase of estimates over the estimates of last year is $14,036,048; the net increase over last year's appropriation is $19,170,155. The estimates include no provision for rivers and harbors save the amounts required for continuing improvements.

It has been decided by the republican committee on committees of the Senate that Senator Burton of Kansas, under conviction for using his position to assist a client in postoffice affairs, shall not be assigned to any of the committees of the Senate. The State Department has received information from Santo Domingo, stating that the threatened disagreement with President Morales' cabinet has been amicably settled. The news is of a reassuring character, and puts at rest a fear that a split in the government itself in Santo Domingo might add to the difficulties in the little republic. With this danger averted, the general situation there is very satisfactory.

A caucus of the democratic Senators was held this morning, and lasted about ten minutes. Senator Gorman of Maryland was re-elected chairman without opposition. Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky and Senator Carmack of Tennessee were re-elected vice chairman and secretary respectively. The old steering committee was re-elected with the addition of Senator Teller of Colorado. There was no discussion of policies.

At this morning's session of the American Warehousemen's Association, the following officers were re-elected: O. W. T. Robinson, of Philadelphia, president; Albert H. Read, of Washington, vice president; and Walter C. Reid, of New York, secretary and treasurer.

Neither house of Congress was in session today, having adjourned until Monday.

"The abolition of negro slavery in the cotton states marked the beginning of white child slavery, which is at its worst today," was the statement of Dr. A. J. McKelway, former editor of the Charlotte (N. C.) News and also of the Presbyterian Standard, this afternoon at a meeting of the national child labor committee at the New Willard Hotel. Dr. McKelway said that the south is awakening to conditions, but that there is still some indifference and more ignorance concerning the extent of the evils. A kind hearted people, he said, could be entrusted to remedy the evil. The national committee is holding its second annual meeting in this city. The topic discussed today was recent legislation and efforts to restrict child labor in the United States.

Senator Martin has presented sundry petitions of citizens of Charlottesville, Elkton, Richmond, Vienna, Waterford, Mount Crawford, Manassas, Fairport, Gilmerton, Locustville, Danville, Quicksburg, Norfolk, Roanoke, and Martinsville, all in the State of Virginia, praying for the enactment of legislation to restrict immigration. He has also introduced a bill for the relief of the heirs of the late Mrs. Mary Ann Randolph Custis Lee.

Rarity for Doctors to Study.

Atlantic City, Dec. 8.—Medical men say they have discovered here a case of "fibrous tumors," the third one in the history of medicine; the only other cases having come to the notice of physicians in Russia. Herman Miles, 19 years old, employed here in a store, suffers from this unique disease, and the Atlantic County Medical Society will have the youth before it today for examination. Miles suffers no pain and gets around as lively as any man of his age. Tumors of the size of shot have formed beneath the cuticle, hundreds of them being seen all over the young man's body. He has permitted several of the "tumors" to be cut out from him for medical examination.

Fire in Freight House.

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 8.—The Lake freight house of the Erie Railroad Company, at the foot of Ganson street, was destroyed by fire that started in the blacksmith shop of the Buffalo Dry Dock Company, at four o'clock this morning. It is estimated that the total loss is $175,000. One fireman was slightly injured. Owing to the shortage of cars, and the freight blockade which has been in existence here for several weeks, the freight house was filled with grain, flour and other products. These were consumed with the building.

The condition of Miss Mary Johnston, the novelist, who is ill in Richmond, is reported to be somewhat improved. A few weeks ago she was thought to be at death's door, but she rallied and her friends have since been very hopeful of her continuing in fairly comfortable health. Her physicians report that she is in better condition than usual.

A letter received at Jamestown Exposition headquarters yesterday from President Harry St. George Tucker, written before his departure from London for Berlin, states that Lord Roberts, of Boar war fame, will in all probability be assigned to command the British troops which are to be sent to represent the armies of Great Britain at the Jamestown Exposition in 1907.

Nannie Curl, thirty-two years of age, an inmate of a house in the section known as Locust alley, Richmond, was burned to death in her room last night. The woman had been on a spree for several days, and had several times threatened suicide. She emptied the contents of an oil lamp over her clothing and then deliberately applied a match to the inflammable material.

Judge Lewis, recently reappointed by President Roosevelt to his old position of United States attorney for the eastern district of Virginia, qualified in Norfolk, yesterday before Judge Waddill and entered at once upon his duties. Robert H. Talley, who resigned as district attorney so that his former chief could be reappointed, was himself reappointed assistant district attorney and qualified at once before Judge Waddill.

Killed Daughter-in-law.

John J. Vaughan, aged fifty-seven years, killed his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Philip Vaughan, and then killed himself with the same weapon, at Culpeper, yesterday morning, about 9:30 o'clock. Philip Vaughan is a farmhand on the Catalpa farm, owned by John C. Bell, and resides in a small house which was formerly used as a toll station for the Thornton Gap turnpike, about one mile from town. At the time of the tragedy Mrs. Philip Vaughan, her four children and father-in-law, were at the house, and the son was away at work.

When the authorities arrived on the scene of the tragedy, both John Vaughan and Mrs. Philip Vaughan were dead, and the children were screaming in the house.

Vaughan was in Alexandria Wednesday where he has a daughter living. He returned to Culpeper that night. He remarked to several persons that he was feeling well, but by 12 o'clock next day he would be dead, and that he had a woman to kill. Nobody took his remarks seriously. He spent the night in town and went out to his son's house yesterday morning.

After staying around the house for a short while, evidently to assure himself that the woman was alone with her children, he left, and went to a neighbor's house near by and asked him for the loan of a pistol. At that time he appeared in fine spirits, picking up a violin and playing a tune. The pistol was empty, and there were no cartridges on the premises. Vaughan said he was going to take a trip. He came to town, bought five cartridges, loaded the pistol, and immediately returned to his home and committed the crime.

According to the testimony of little Daisy Vaughan, her mother struggled desperately with her father-in-law before she was shot and killed. The girl begged her grandfather not to hurt her mother, but he turned upon her with great fury and pushed her aside, yelling, "Get out of the way or I will kill you."

No reason is assigned for this rash act of the old man, and his son declares they lived happily together. John Vaughan was a mechanic, and at one time worked on the construction of the new bridge over the Potomac.

The manager also states that Mr. Yerkes expects to be out in a day or two.

MRS. ROGERS EXECUTED.

White River Junction, Vt., Dec. 8.—A final effort to save Mrs. Mary Rogers from hanging was made this morning by E. B. Flinn, of Springfield, Vermont, one of the counsel for Mrs. Rogers, who held an extended conference with Governor Bell and pleaded for a reprieve on further evidence that had been obtained. Gov. Bell, after listening to the last plea of Mr. Flinn, said that the woman must be executed. "Public sentiment in Vermont is against you," said Governor Bell, "and the law must take its course."

Miss Jessie M. Partlon, of Cincinnati, who this morning presented Governor Bell with a petition signed by 30,000 women of Ohio, asking him to reprieve Mrs. Rogers, exclaimed when she heard the Governor's decision: "My God, Governor, is it possible that you can ignore the petition of these thirty thousand women?" The Governor sadly shook his head and all knew that Mrs. Rogers would hang before the close of the day.

Windsor, Vt., Dec. 8.—The news that Governor Bell had declined to make a further reprieve and that she must hang was taken to Mrs Rogers' cell as soon as it was received by Superintendent Lovell. The woman clung to the cell doorbars, as the last remaining hope fled from her breast, and then turned with tearless eyes and half collapsed in her cot.

Mrs. Rogers last night spoke to Mrs. Burke, the prison matron, of the coming day and told her that she was ready to meet her death. "I know it must be, and I am prepared to die," she said, and then added plaintively, "You do not think they will hurt me, do you? "No Mary, they will not hurt, and it will not be long," replied Mrs. Burke. "I will go with you as far as the guard room door."

Mrs. Rogers relapsed into moody thoughts and near midnight she spoke of the wooden thing in the court below; what it looked like, was it very high, and were there many steps to the gallows floor? All these questions showed the thoughts that filled her fevered mind. She shook and trembled violently and the fear seemed to grow on her that she would be hurt on the gallows. Tortured with this fear, until an exhaustion came, she fell, half-dressed, on her cot into a troubled sleep. She awoke at the dawn and inquired the time of Mrs. Loukes. Then she waited at the cell door the coming of the day.

Matron Burke went to her this morning and placed a comforting arm about the trembling form. Father Delaney came later and heard the woman's last words. They prayed together for many minutes and then the priest administered the last rites of the church.

Father Delaney left her after bidding her farewell. He will not see the execution, for the kindly old priest believes not in capital punishment. Instead he will remain in the superintendent's library and will only go to the woman in case she collapses and calls for him.

Mrs. Rogers at times paced the narrow confines of the cell, and again paused and gazed blankly into the corridor, as if hope had flickered in her soul that something might come to stay her miserable end. She sobbed only a little, for the shock of approaching death had dulled much of the remaining sensibility.

The preparations for the execution were completed this morning.

Shortly before one o'clock Mrs. Burke went to Mrs. Rogers' cell and dressed her for the execution. The woman wore the combination black dress of waist and skirt that was made last spring for the execution last June. Mrs. Rogers wore no corset or collar.

Windsor, Vt., Dec. 8.—Mary Mabel Rogers was hanged by the neck until she was dead in the Windsor Prison this afternoon for the murder of her husband Marcus Rogers.

The woman was pronounced dead at 1:28 o'clock just fourteen minutes after the trap was sprung.

Without a trace or show of any emotion, Mrs. Rogers went to her death quietly, and calmly as she had told Mrs. Burke last night.

She made no statement or confession. She merely nodded her head, indicating that she was quite ready.

The march from the death cell began at six minutes past one. Mrs. Rogers had just concluded a short religious service with Father Delaney, and when the tall figure of three deputy sheriffs appeared at the cell door, she turned to Mrs. Burke and said simply:

"I am ready to go, Mrs. Burke, and I thank you for what you have done." Then the three deputy sheriffs who formed the death procession to the gallows were Kinrey, Fairbanks and Vaughan, bowed their heads as the woman bade her guards Mr. and Mrs. Loukes farewell.

Mrs. Burke had dressed the woman in a combination black skirt and waist, which had been made for the execution last June.

In the face of death the vanity of the woman asserted itself and she called for a gold chain and locket which she carefully put about her neck, which was bare, the matron having previously removed the collar. She wore no corsets.

The cell door creaked and Mrs. Rogers stepped out in the corridor and took her place between the deputy sheriffs. Mrs. Burke walked by her side. Down the three long flights of steps the woman walked without a sign of fear or collapse.

She reached the guard room and stepped across the room, and down into the enclosed court. Inside in one corner was the instrument of death, while ranged around, the court were the prison officials and the states witnesses.

Mrs. Rogers looked at the scaffold as she walked to the steps, but turned away and looked duly at the spectators.

A deputy sheriff preceded her up the steps, of the gallows and another walked by her side in case she should give way.

The courage of the woman was magnificent.

She reached the scaffold floor without a falter, though the face showed the prison pallor, usual in prisoners of long confinement. Deputy Sheriff Kiniry motioned Mrs. Rogers to a seat on the scaffold and the woman sat down and gazed about as if she was a spectator to an event in which she had no part. Deputy Sheriffs Thomas and McDermott quickly pinioned the woman's arms behind her and then stepped aside. Deputy Sheriff Kiniry leaned down and asked Mrs. Rogers if she wished to make any statement. "No," she said almost in a whisper and accompanied her answer with a slight shake of the head.

Deputy Sheriff Shofford ordered Mrs. Rogers to stand up and she walked over and stood on the trap. The large black sack was drawn up over her body and tied at the neck.

Deputy Sheriff Shofford, after the black cap had been adjusted, slipped the noose around her neck. The deputy sheriffs stood back, and Shofford gave the signal to Deputy McCauley.

There was an intense silence in the execution chamber.

"I now execute the sentence of the law and may God have mercy on your soul," spoke McCauley as he pressed the spring releasing the trap.

The trap fell, with a crack, and crash that could be heard by the two score of people who had gathered around outside the prison.

The pinioned body encased in the black sack, shot down until the rope became taut and then snapped back and half spun on the rope from the force of the fall. No sound came from the black bag other than a half smothered gasp. Dr. Dean Richmond, the prison physician, stepped forward and placing his hand on the woman's wrist, felt for the pulse.

The woman's neck had not been broken by the fall, for the pulse beat was still perceptible.

When she was finally pronounced dead her body was lowered.

Mrs. Rogers told the prison matron that she wanted to be buried in the clothes in which she had been hanged.

The body of Mrs. Rogers will be shipped to Hoosick Falls, N. Y., where she will be buried in the Callahan family plot.

Mrs. Rogers's crime was one of the most coldblooded in the criminal history of Vermont. Blinded by illegal passion for a young man (Maurice Knapp), the woman, then only 19, but who had been separated from her husband, Marcus Rogers, for sometime, plotted his death, in order that she might marry Knapp and obtain Rogers's life insurance. Rogers was in New York State. To bring him to Bennington, where she lived, Mrs. Rogers wrote a loving letter, asking for a reconciliation. Rogers responded, and on the afternoon of his arrival (August 13, 1902), at Bennington he, Mrs. Rogers, Leon Perham and Stella Bates went to a secluded spot on the banks of Walloomoosac river. Here, while caressing her husband, she suggested that he allow himself to have his hands and feet tied to demonstrate a new trick she had learned. He consented and she and Perham bound him. Then he was chloroformed, despite his struggles, when he saw too late that murder was intended and thrown into the river.

Rogers was not missed for several days. Then his hat and coat, found near the river, resulted in a search for the body, which was found. At the first trial Knapp was exonerated, it being proved he had no knowledge of the crime. Perham made a confession and he and Mrs. Rogers were found guilty of murder in the first degree. He was given a life sentence and Mrs. Rogers was sentenced to be hanged. Stella Bates was acquitted. Since then every effort possible has been made to save Mrs. Rogers. Charges of rottenness in prison management in Vermont has been one outcome of the case. It was claimed that the woman was about to become a mother. This would have prevented her execution.

Death of Senator Mitchell.

Portland, Oregon, Dec. 8.—U. S. Senator John H. Mitchell lies at the point of death. Early this morning his physician said he might die at any moment. There is no hope for recovery. Mitchell had four teeth extracted yesterday. The continued bleeding from the wound caused his removal to the Good Samaritan hospital where after several hours work the hemorrhage was stopped. At midnight the bleeding began again, but was checked after about two hours The Senator suffers from kidney trouble and is broken down on account of his connection with the land frauds. He has been unable to endure the loss of blood and early this morning he was unconscious and barely alive.

Portland, Or., Dec. 8.—At 8 o'clock the physicians report the Senator as dying. He cannot live they say. Coma has set in and he is kept alive under stimulants of saline solution.

Senator Mitchell died at 11:30 o'clock this morning.

Washington, Dec. 8.—The death of Senator Mitchell means that Oregon will have a democratic Senator as his successor. Although the legislature is republican, the Governor is a democrat. The legislature not being in session at this time, the Governor will naturally appoint a democrat as Senator, to hold until his successor shall have been chosen at the regular session of the legislature next November.

The usual form will be followed by the Senate in the matter of Mr. Mitchell's death. A committee will be appointed to attend the funeral, if possible. It is not likely, however, that it could reach Portland in time, owing to the distance from Washington. Next Monday the Senate will probably adjourn after the reading of the journal out of respect to the memory of the deceased.

Died in His Arms.

Lewistown, Pa., Dec. 8.—"Seepy, papa! All 'ight!" And little 3-year-old Olive Margaret Davis, on her father's knee in their home here yesterday saw the paternal head nod and the fond eyes close. When Mr. Davis awoke, a few moments later, his lovely child was dying. Rummaging in his vest-pocket, she had found a package of "tandy," as she called it. It was medicine—14 grains of strychnia—and she died in her father's arms before he half realized what had happened.

Turkey and the Powers.

Financial Crash Inevitable.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 8.—The financial crash which has been felt must inevitably overtake the country if the present disordered conditions continue unchecked is, apparently, beginning, Three small banks here have suspended payment because of the impossibility of obtaining assistance to meet the run started on them. Many cases of the bankruptcy of industrial firms are reported from the provinces and the money situation is growing graver every hour.

The people are now refusing to pay taxes, declaring that the government has no right to the people's money until it proves itself willing to do what the people want. This is one of the most serious features of the situation. Many officials believe the government will not be able to pay salaries at the end of the month.

Many people in St. Petersburg are helping the strikers, who have tied up the telegraph and postal service, by refusing to receive mail delivered by the volunteer letter carriers who have taken the places of the strikers. Several automobiles belonging to society leaders which were pressed into service as temporary letter wagons, have been attacked and destroyed by strikers.

The government confiscated $12,000, which was sent through the post from France for the use of the strikers.

A serious mutiny has occurred at Lomsha. The troops rebelled, fired the barracks and attacked their officers. The mutineers are now in control of the town.

Public sentiment is being directed more and more against Premier Witte, and his immediate resignation is now being demanded.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 6. (via Eydtkuhnen, Russia, Dec. 7).—A massacre at Kieff is reported here, but without further details than that 1,500 persons have been slain.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 7. (via Eytkuhnen)—Dissatisfied with his treatment at the hands of his imperial master and apparently feeling that it was beyond his power to restore tranquil conditions throughout the kingdom, Count Witte, who but a few short days ago assumed the post of premier of the Russian empire, today handed the Czar his letter of resignation of the position, and a sensational scene ensued. The Czar, after reading the document through, tore it in a hundred pieces and flung it at Witte's feet, exclaiming angrily:

"Are you such a poor patriot as to desert me in this hour of misfortune? Remain in office until I see fit to relieve you." The emperor then turned sharply on his heel and left Count Witte standing in the middle of the reception chamber. Later the Czar is reported to have told one of his intimates that he would have been delighted to have gotten rid of Witte, but that he would be indispensable until the present crisis is over.

New York Stock Market.

New York, Dec. 8.—The speculative element is disposed to wait for developments from Washington in regard to monetary relief, and as a result, trading has been restricted to a comparatively few issues, and price movements, except in specialties, have been unimportant. It is current gossip on the floor of the exchange that Secretary Shaw will make a definite announcement at one o'clock today, and that the larger operators are confident that the secretary will begin deposits in the National banks on Monday.

Cattle Dealer Fatally Injured.

George F. Walters, a cattle dealer of Langley, Fairfax county, was run over by a light engine in the Southern Railway yard in this city between 11 and 12 o'clock last night and so seriously injured that he died soon after being removed to the Alexandria Hospital. The unfortunate man leaves a widow and several small children. Mr. Walters had come to Alexandria in charge of a carload of cattle and had proceeded to the office in the yard for the purpose of settling the freight charges. He was on his way back when a light engine that had arrived from Washington struck and ran over him, severing his right arm and inflicting internal injuries. The engineer saw Mr. Walters' satchel roll on an opposite track, and, supposing something had fallen from the locomotive, stopped it, when he discovered that it had run over Mr. Walters. He was picked up and taken to the hospital. Dr. O'Brien was called to attend the man at 11:30 o'clock last night, and with Dr. Jones proceeded to the hospital at once where they found Walters in a most deplorable condition. His skull was crushed front and back and his right arm badly mangled. The doctors amputated the mangled arm, dressed the wounds on his head and did all in their power for the relief of the unfortunate man, but to no avail, and soon thereafter, as stated above, he expired. The deceased had $1,500 in his satchel when killed. Master Mechanic W. F. Kaderly was one of the first who went to his assistance. The accident occurred within a few yards of the spot where Mordecai Hurst was recently run over and killed. The remains will be taken to Lewinsville for interment.

Held For Grand Jury.

Accused of passing a forged check at the Commercial National Bank in Washington, Whitney J. Hall, a messenger in the Department of Justice who was arrested Tuesday night, was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday morning. Judge Kimball announced that he would hold the prisoner for the action of the grand jury, and in default of $3,000 bond Hall was committed to jail. It was intimated in a conference held shortly after the fixing of the bond that the mind of the defendant may be unbalanced. A mental examination was ordered and if it is discovered that the prisoner is demented he will be sent to St. Elizabeth's Asylum. Mrs. Hall, wife of the defendant, said that she considered her husband to be mentally irresponsible for the crime and told of several of his recent freaks.

"Peached."

It is reported that Sarah Gaskins, colored, now confined in jail on the charge of complicity in the murder of Richard Mills, also colored, whose dead body was found a few weeks ago in a shanty in the "Petersburg neighborhood, has grown tired of her confinement as Christmas draws near and has "peached," implicating a colored man who, it is said, was employed on the railroad construction work now in progress near this city. The woman's statement comes a little late and it is feared that the man has left these parts, though it is rumored that he was seen in this city a few nights since. The police are investigating the matter and are on the lookout for the man.

Keel for New Steamer.

The keel for the new excursion steamer Jamestown to be built for the Norfolk and Washington Steamboat Company had been laid at the Newport News shipyard and the work of building the boat will be pushed rapidly to completion. It is understood the steel parts of the new boat are ready and that the work of placing and fastening them in position can be done in a comparatively short time. It is said that the new steamer will be launched in the early spring, and will be ready to go into service early in the coming summer.

Masonic.

A well-attended meeting of Andrew Jackson Lodge, No. 120, A., F. & A. M., was held last night. The work of the third degree was exemplified upon one candidate, by the officers of Alexandria-Washington Lodge. After the adjournment the members of the lodge with visiting brethern, including a number from Washington, repaired to the Elkton Hotel where a sumptuous oyster supper had been spread which was greatly enjoyed by all present.

The Russian Situation Summed Up.

The outcry against Premier Witte is increasing, and although confidence is disappearing, a hope exists that he will still execute a grand coup and save the day.

On January 1, 1903, the Washingtonian and Mirror, both of Leesburg, were combined and Captain Lynch became editor-in-chief of the consolidated papers. He was a gallant officer in the Seventeenth Virginia Regiment during the war and is kindly remembered by the other survivors of that command.

The Key that Unlocks the Door to Long Living.

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund well fed, but thin, spare men, who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets to cleanse and invigorate his stomach and regulate his liver and bowels. When this is done there is no reason why the average man should not live to old age. For sale by Gibson & Timberman and W. F. Creighton & Co.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie says if he owned the United States he would offer premiums to induce larger immigration. He added: "Now I hold that the prime test and the only test we should exact is this: Has a man the ambition to enjoy the rights of an American citizen, and has he the habits of frugality to save the sum necessary for him to reach this port? And is he skillful enough to earn that surplus? I want no better testimony than that."

Racial Suit for Heartpain.

Pittsburg, Dec. 8.—Mrs. Mildred Morrow, handsome, young and a widow with three children, who lives on Alder street, yesterday entered suit against Levi De Wolf, head of the Pittsburg Brokerage Company, and one of the most prominent Hebrews of the city, charging him with breach of promise to marry, and asking for $50,000 damages. Mrs. Morrow is a gentile, while Mr. De Wolf is foremost in Jewish circles here. She states her case as follows:

For a year and a half the defendant, a single man, has been paying court to plaintiff, and on October 16, 1904, proposed marriage to her, and was accepted.

About a month later, during November, 1904, he again proposed marriage, and urged that the marriage should take place some time in the month of February, 1905. The defendant gave the plantiff an engagement ring in December, 1904, and from that time until the present has visited her from three to four nights a week; has nursed her children, and, acting in the capacity of a father to them, helped them trim their Christmas tree; has given flowers, candy and other presents to the plaintiff; has taken her the theateres, carnivals, car and vehicle riding, restaurants and other public places, and has held himself out to her family and friends as her affianced lover.

The plaintiff gave up to her home at great expense, and, at his solicitation and request, secured, and furnished a house, prepared a wedding trousseau at great expense, and was at all times ready and willing to carry out the terms of the said engagement; but he, from time to time, offered plausible excuses for postponement until during the month of November, 1905, he refused to carry out the terms of the engagement.

Mr. De Wolf is 46 years of age; Mrs Morrow is considerably younger.

Shot Two Women.

Alfred P. Freleich, a pharmacist in the Presbyterian Hospital, shot and killed his wife, Fannie, and her mother, Mrs. Anna Hoeflung, in his home in Brooklyn, yesterday. After the shooting he pocketed the revolver, and, stepping over his wife's body, walked out of the house. He gave himself up to a policeman he met in the street, and was locked up after refusing to make a statement. Freleich had met his wife while she was employed as a stenographer in the hospital, and they were married about five years ago. They have one child, and the bullets that ended his mother-in-law's life came near killing the baby, with whom its grandmother was playing at the time. A doctor who examined the prisoner at the station-house said he was suffering from nervous prostration.

Capital's New Social Line.

Washington society is in a state of ferment because of the distinction which the Cabinet hostesses Wednesday drew between official and personal friends. It was generally understood when the Cabinet women announced they would be at home that it would be for the purpose of receiving the congressional contingent and those who wished to pay their respects early in the season.

But the Cabinet women did not intend this, and those callers who were unknown to the hostesses were soon enlightened about the significance of the reception. In some instances the men at the door presumed to act as censors, and, knowing the personal friends, refused to take in the cards of strangers.

The episode has caused a sensation. Never before has such a line between official and social acquaintances been attempted in Washington. The women of the congressional set are entirely at sea. They are not personal friends, and yet etiquette requires them to call on the wives of the Cabinet officers as soon as convenient after they arrive in Washington.

Order for Christmas Cake.

The following letter from Mr. C. W. Chandler, president of Chicago Branch Sixth Division, N. A. R. P. C., has been received by Messrs. L. Shuman & Son:

Messrs. L. Shuman & Son,

Gentlemen:—The yuletide season is rapidly approaching and in order to properly enjoy our Christmas dinner, myself and friends again desire a generous supply of your famous fruit cake.

That its excellence is thoroughly appreciated by your Chicago patrons is evidenced by the increase in our order. Our first order in 1903 was 30 pounds; in 1904 40 pounds, and this year I take pleasure in forwarding our order for 130 pounds; an increase of over 300 per cent. over that of last year.

This is wholly due to the superior qualities of your cakes, which are so delicious they would tempt even an anchorite to partake of them. That your success and patronage may continue to increase each year and for as many years as you may continue in business, is the wish of your Chicago patrons. With kindest regards, I remain, Yours sincerely,

Treasure Found.

Word reached Wilmington, Del., yesterday of the finding of $10,000 in old gold and silver coins that were buried in the ruins in a deserted country mansion near Sharptown, Md. The treasure was hidden during the civil war, evidently to keep soldiers from stealing it. Search had been made a number of years for the wealth by residents of the neighborhood, but without success. Now, however, three citizens of Sharptown have succeeded in locating the coins, all of which bear dates prior to 1860. One-half of the amount is in gold. The find did not become known until the treasure was deposited in a local bank. The bank officials refuse to give the name of the successful fortune-hunters. The place where the money was unearthed is three miles from Sharptown on the Nanticoke river. It was during the night that the coins were found after weeks of digging, and now searching parties for more wealth supposed to be hidden there are seen nightly.

Cast Fortune Away to Wed.

Miss Louisa Bagnall, aged 18, a Pittsburg heiress, sacrificed a fortune at Youngstown, Ohio, a few nights ago for love's sake when she wedded William Meider. The couple eloped to Youngstown from Pittsburg and procured a marriage license. As they left the Court House they were arrested on instructions from William Bagnall, a Pittsburg steel magnate, and the girl's guardian. They were in the police station all afternoon. Mr. Bagnall went to Youngstown and unable to dissuade the girl from marrying, he finally offered her $100,000 in cash if she would jilt Meider and return home with him. She spurned his offer and the couple went to the home of Rev. Mr. Frazier, where they were married. They left for Pittsburg last night. Bagnall's objection to his niece's marriage was that he thought she was marrying below her station.

STRONG Again

is what Mrs. Lucy Stovall, of Tilton, Ga., said after taking Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Hundreds of other weak women are being restored to perfect health by this remedy. YOU may be well if you will take it.

Indigestion causes nearly all the sickness that women have. It deprives the system of nourishment and the delicate organs peculiar to women suffer—weaken, and become diseased.

Kodol

enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten. It nourishes the body, and rebuilds the weak organs, restoring health and strength. Kodol cures indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, sour risings, belching, heartburn and all stomach disorders.
